- 10 One Island, One Resort • Spanning 300 acres of which 80% of the ancient rainforest has been preserved in its natural state with Pangkor Laut Resort and MUSE Pangkor Laut Estates woven seamlessly within. A British Colonel, Freddy Spencer Chapman DSO, was one of the first Europeans to make Pangkor Laut his destination for thirty-six hours in May 1945. After spending three and a half years in hiding from the Japanese in the jungles of Malaya, Spencer Chapman made his way to Pangkor Laut's Emerald Bay to escape by submarine. Despite the short visit, the beauty and tranquillity of the resort left a great impression on Spencer Chapman and his time on the island is detailed in his book "The Jungle is Neutral".
